EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

Certified Remediation Specialist Exam

Met with Al Roesler, ADEQ representatives, Jack and Steve Warner on 2/18/99 to review plans for doing task analysis for CRS exam. This included scheduling a meeting on 3/26/99 with ADEQ representatives and individuals identified as being interested in the CRS program by virtue of their attendance at the last stakeholder's meeting. We will attempt to develop a task analysis in order to identify what's needed on the exam. The target date for the first draft is June 30, 1999.

Geological Engineer

Met with Jack and Steve Warner, Prof. Glass, Prof. Kulatilake and Jim Barber on 2/19/99 and determined that we would attempt to bring together states that register geological engineers in order to standardize the exam. Letters will be sent out the second week in March asking other states to participate. In addition, I will be meeting with those states who register geological engineers at the Western Region NCEES meeting in April.

Chris Matthewson, current Chair of the Associated Engineer Geologist, has indicated that he also is interested in possibly working with our Board on the exam.

Webpage Update

We are in the process of adding applications, application instructions, and fees to the web site. Should be accomplished by next Friday. We will also have a counter installed to see how many have visited our web site. Rules and Statutes are on the web site and searchable. We have added revision dates to updates and fee schedules.

Newsletter Update

We are collecting material for the newsletter. Below is the publishing process schedule:

- Straight material is due 4-5-99
- Label information due 4-5-99
- Proof to us by 4-28-99
- Corrections to be returned by 5-3-99
- Camera ready 5-5-99

Rule Package #2 Update

Supplemental Proposed Rulemaking Documents are pending Secretary of State's approval for publishing.

Executive Director Report

June 1999

Status report – Telephone system

The automated telephone system has been debugged. We are working with the knowledge gained over the last month to find a way to assist first time callers in getting to the right staffers when they call. We are going to be altering the greeting and providing a more comprehensive telephone map. We will also be posting the telephone directory on the web site and in the newsletter.

Status report - Computer system

This was our most problematic and expensive FY 99 operation. At the last moment the Department of Administration advised that they could not do the installation of our new Novell system and Pentium computers (a major part of our Y2K upgrade) and we had to go to an outside vendor. We chose to go with Analysts International, the vendor that assisted us in developing the web site). There were incompatibility problems between some of the equipment and, of course, some of the equipment malfunctioned. We also found out the original set up of the network server by Department of Administration staff had to be significantly changed to work with the new system.

During the installation, we were advised by the vendor that regardless of the sign off by Department of Administration that we were Y2K compliant, we were not. It appears that some patches have to be made in order for our Microsoft programs to be compliant. We will be working on that problem in the next month.

I have made some organization changes in an effort to provide us with some additional staff capabilities in the area of information technology. I don't want to have to bring in outside vendors for every problem associated with the Novell network, the new bridge between our Local Area Network and the Department of Administration Wide Area Network and our web site operation. Our major problem in relying on the Department of Administration is that the powers to be have not decided what role that agency is going to play when it comes to supporting small and medium sized agency technology planning and operation. Over the last two years they have advised that they could provide a significant amount of support and, then later, advised that they could do very little for us. Since they are vacillating, it is important for us to build another source of support. I have already advised the Department of Administration that I intend to talk to the Governor's staff about the need, in my opinion, for the Department of administration to settle on a role position and my feelings on the need for their support rather than relying on outside vendors.

Early entry into examination process

Currently, NCEES, NCARB, CLARB and ASBOG are considering programs that would allow persons to start the professional licensure examination process during the qualification by education and experience earlier. There has been discussion with these organizations about opening up the professional exam to in-training candidates as soon as they pass the in-training examination rather than requiring them to wait until all education and experience requirements are met. The advantages to the candidates are:

This would allow candidates to exercise more control over the timing of their exams, and

It could shorten the total qualification period by approximately six months to a year

The advantages to the state are:

The perception that the state is interested in assisting qualified persons in obtaining registration would be enhanced by the agency's participation in the program.

The advantages to the national council are:

The establishment of communication with candidates early in their quest for registration, and

A possible immediate increase in the number of exam candidates.

Examination before application option

Currently, NCEES, NCARB, CLARB and ASBOG are considering programs that would allow persons to start the professional licensure examination process prior to application to a specific state. This program would compliment the examination during the qualification by education and experience program. There are advantages to this program for candidates, states and the national councils.

The advantages to a candidate who chooses this option are:

- The establishment of communication with the national certification group early in their quest for registration;
- Deferment of the need to declare a state of initial registration until they are ready for registration;
- Deferment of state fee payment until the end of the process of meeting qualification;
- The possibility of a lower state application processing fee;
- A continuously updated education/work experience record maintained by the certifying body until a state needs the information for registration evaluation, and
- A faster action on the part of the Board when the application package is finally presented to the Board.

The advantages to the state are:

- Applicants choosing this option will present the Board with a completed application package that includes examination results and reduces staff time needed for processing;
- There will be less confusion about the time frame issues, and
- Staff involvement in tracking scores and changes in the applicant status or information while completing exams will be eliminated

The advantages to the national council are:

- The ability to directly communicate with persons considering or pursuing registration early in their effort, and
- The strengthening of the national council as the certification body.

Golf Course design.

We received some complaints about individuals "designing" golf courses without benefit of registration. Discussions with a number of building officials resulted in the discovery that most of them are not requiring the use of registrants for significant portions of golf course design. At the Chair's request, I initiated discussion with our legal counsel and then prepared an official request for an Attorney General opinion on the need for registrant participation, particularly the need for Landscape Architecture registration for certain portions of the design. A copy of the request has been distributed to Board members.

Proposed new fees

Firm Registration

A.R.S. 32-141 requires firms to file with the Board before offering professional services under the Board's jurisdiction. Firms are required to notify the Board of responsible registrants, changes in responsible registrants, changes in services offered, and change of address within 30 days.

Currently the Board has 9,000 firms listed in its database program of firms. We know the database is incorrect in many areas. We get many queries from the public regarding firms and their legal right to operate and the identity of their responsible registrants. The information is outdated and confusing. The service to the public of this program can be improved.

Proposed:

The firm registration be made an annual registration. Firms be required to notify according to the requirements of 32-141 and also be required to file a renewal firm annually in order to legally continue to offer services.

This will assist us in providing an actual service to the public with a reasonable expectation that the information is correct.

The annual renewal fee would help offset the resource needs necessary to maintain the database and to include the database on the Board's web site for public use.

I would propose an initial annual renewal fee somewhere in the range of $10 - $25.

In-training designation

We currently have approximately 600 names in our in-training database. We know that there are not 600 persons carrying that designation that and actively seeking registration. The database program was originally designed without any provision for removal of a name. Some persons have become registered in other states. Some have become registered in this state. Some have quit seeking registration. The database is of little value to anyone.

Proposed:

The in-training designation requires an annual renewal. Renewal would help us maintain an accurate record of those still interested in registration in Arizona. Failure to renew would remove the name from the public list.

This will assist us in providing an actual service to the public with a reasonable expectation that the information is correct.

We could include the in-training designees in the newsletter mailing list.

The annual renewal fee would help offset the resource needs necessary to maintain the database and include the database on the Board's web site for other registration board and public use.

I would propose an initial annual renewal fee somewhere in the range of $10 - $15.

Verification fee

A number of states have started charging a verification fee for verifying registration to the national councils and other licensing agencies.

A request requires us to either, enter the AS400 system and bring up the computer file or research our microfilmed records. In some cases, we have to physically go down to records and archives to obtain the information if we want to avoid a wait of several days for the material to be delivered by courier.

Proposed:
I would propose a verification fee of $10.
